

Sunday August 23, 2020 18:28

'Old Man's Heavy Sleep' to vie at Venice Architecture filmfest

 Aa

'Old Man's Heavy Sleep' is to vie at Venice Architecture Short Film Festival in Italy.

Iranian short film 'Old Man's Heavy Sleep' is placed in the 2020 official selection of the LIVING TOGETHER AGAIN – Venice Architecture Short Film Festival in Italy.

The 1st edition of the Italian film event, which will be held on September 1-5 in Venice, will host Mostafa Rostampour's 15-minute 'Old Man's Heavy Sleep'.

Rostampour's film is about an old man whose children left him. The man feels lonely and can't tolerate the situation. He desires death because of this deadly loneliness.

'Old Man's Heavy Sleep' is the winner of the Best Cinematography Award at the 2020 edition of Italian Film Days festival.

The flick also participated in a number of international festivals, including the Lift-off Film Festival in the UK, the Media View Int'l Film Festival in Hungary, the First-time Filmmaker Sessions in the UK, the 2020 Southeast Regional Film Festival in the US and the Busan Int'l Kids and Youth Film Festival in South Korea.

The Venice Architecture Short Film Festival, as put by the event's official website, "is an annual event aimed at recognizing issues relevant to architecture, the use of public space and sense of community."

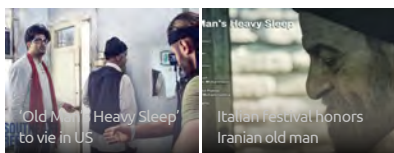

MM/FM

 Tags Old Man's Heavy Sleep

 Share

Related News

 Comments

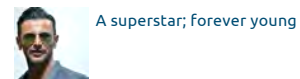

Latest

- RIFF honors Entezami with Rasoul's Sign
- Iranian 'Gando' to go to Estonian fest
- 'The 11th Step' to vie in Croatia
- Russian fest nominates Iranian 'Akam'
- Mohsen to travel to future once again
- 16th RIFF holds closing ceremony
- Shahab Hosseini introduced as most popular actor in role of martyrs
- Resistance Int'l Film Festival announces nominees
- Iranian doc subtitled to be released in Japan
- 'Funfair' screened at Swiss fest

Most Watched

Most Read

Most

Commented

